Invitation

We are pleased to invite you to join us at the III International Meeting on Allergen Vaccines and Immunobiologics organized by the Latin American Association of Immunology (ALAI), the Cuban Society of Immunology, the Cuban Society of Allergy and Asthma and the National Bioproducts Center (BIOCEN).

The third edition of this meeting intends to continue the well-laid tradition of the first two editions in 2009 and 2012, intending to enhance the opportunities of scientific exchange, cross-fertilization and cooperation between colleagues from academic and clinical research institutions, industry and regulatory agencies, from developed and developing countries.

The venue, located in the beautiful beach of Varadero, provides an unrivaled environment, which allows for an effective combination of scientific debate and relaxation in the friendliest atmosphere.

We are looking forward to having the opportunity of warmly welcoming you in Varadero, Cuba, from May 17 to 21, 2020.

About the venue:
Varadero is the most famous beach and tourist attraction in Cuba. Varadero is located on the Northern coast of Matanzas province, at 150 km from Havana. It’s perfect coastline of fine white sand and warm transparent waters runs for 20 km, making from this unique place, one of the most beautiful beach places in the world: a holiday paradise. Varadero is connected to main European, North and South American cities by several airways through the Varadero or the Havana international airports. The meeting’s venue is the Meliá Internacional Varadero, a classic and majestic hotel, a true icon of Varadero. Located on the beachfront, it boasts excellent sea views.

Havanatur, the Official Travel Agency has prepared a package comprising All-Inclusive accommodation in Varadero and one night in Havana before or after the Meeting’s dates, including transfers Havana-Varadero and Airport-Hotel.
